

CLIMATE CHANGE

LECTURE

Following on the success of the climate change lecture series during 2007 and 2008 the Environmental Protection Agency will host a number of occasional climate change lectures in autumn 2008 and spring 2009. The occasional lectures are aimed at providing updates from the science of climate change as well as the policy and political response to this global challenge. As in the earlier lectures, speakers include top international experts in science, economics and technology.

The next lecture will be given by Professor Wilfried Haeberli, Director of the World Glacier Monitoring Service based in the University of Zurich. The lecture will take place on Tuesday 21st October, 2008., in The Round Room, The Mansion House, Dawson Street, Dublin 2.

The lecture will be chaired by Dr John Bowman.
