88% say climate change is affecting weather in Ireland.

94% trust scientists as a source of information about climate change.

85% are worried about climate change.

96% of Irish people think climate change is happening.

72% of people in Ireland say they discuss climate change with family and friends.

80% of people in Ireland say many sectors of Irish society should be doing more to address climate change.

90% say Ireland has a responsibility to act on climate change and should do what it can to reduce its own greenhouse emissions.

62% think taking action to reduce climate change will improve economic growth and create jobs.

78% say taking action to reduce climate change will improve Ireland’s quality of life.

69% of Irish people would donate money or volunteer time (60%) to an organization working on climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

57% have bought goods or services in the last 12 months from a company that has taken action to reduce climate change.

55% would “definitely” or “probably” join a citizens’ campaign to convince leaders in Ireland to take action to reduce climate change.

52% would write letters, email, or phone government officials about climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

62% think taking action to reduce climate change will improve economic growth and create jobs.

78% say taking action to reduce climate change will improve Ireland’s quality of life.

45% have punished companies in the last 12 months that are opposing steps to reduce climate change by not buying their products.

72% of people in Ireland say they discuss climate change with family and friends.

90% say Ireland has a responsibility to act on climate change and should do what it can to reduce its own greenhouse emissions.

80% of people in Ireland say many sectors of Irish society should be doing more to address climate change.

62% think taking action to reduce climate change will improve economic growth and create jobs.

78% say taking action to reduce climate change will improve Ireland’s quality of life.

69% of Irish people would donate money or volunteer time (60%) to an organization working on climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

57% have bought goods or services in the last 12 months from a company that has taken action to reduce climate change.

55% would “definitely” or “probably” join a citizens’ campaign to convince leaders in Ireland to take action to reduce climate change.

52% would write letters, email, or phone government officials about climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

62% think taking action to reduce climate change will improve economic growth and create jobs.

78% say taking action to reduce climate change will improve Ireland’s quality of life.

69% of Irish people would donate money or volunteer time (60%) to an organization working on climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

57% have bought goods or services in the last 12 months from a company that has taken action to reduce climate change.

55% would “definitely” or “probably” join a citizens’ campaign to convince leaders in Ireland to take action to reduce climate change.

52% would write letters, email, or phone government officials about climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

62% think taking action to reduce climate change will improve economic growth and create jobs.

78% say taking action to reduce climate change will improve Ireland’s quality of life.

69% of Irish people would donate money or volunteer time (60%) to an organization working on climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

57% have bought goods or services in the last 12 months from a company that has taken action to reduce climate change.

55% would “definitely” or “probably” join a citizens’ campaign to convince leaders in Ireland to take action to reduce climate change.

52% would write letters, email, or phone government officials about climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

62% think taking action to reduce climate change will improve economic growth and create jobs.

78% say taking action to reduce climate change will improve Ireland’s quality of life.

69% of Irish people would donate money or volunteer time (60%) to an organization working on climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

57% have bought goods or services in the last 12 months from a company that has taken action to reduce climate change.

55% would “definitely” or “probably” join a citizens’ campaign to convince leaders in Ireland to take action to reduce climate change.

52% would write letters, email, or phone government officials about climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

62% think taking action to reduce climate change will improve economic growth and create jobs.

78% say taking action to reduce climate change will improve Ireland’s quality of life.

69% of Irish people would donate money or volunteer time (60%) to an organization working on climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

57% have bought goods or services in the last 12 months from a company that has taken action to reduce climate change.

55% would “definitely” or “probably” join a citizens’ campaign to convince leaders in Ireland to take action to reduce climate change.

52% would write letters, email, or phone government officials about climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

62% think taking action to reduce climate change will improve economic growth and create jobs.

78% say taking action to reduce climate change will improve Ireland’s quality of life.

69% of Irish people would donate money or volunteer time (60%) to an organization working on climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

57% have bought goods or services in the last 12 months from a company that has taken action to reduce climate change.

55% would “definitely” or “probably” join a citizens’ campaign to convince leaders in Ireland to take action to reduce climate change.

52% would write letters, email, or phone government officials about climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

62% think taking action to reduce climate change will improve economic growth and create jobs.

78% say taking action to reduce climate change will improve Ireland’s quality of life.

69% of Irish people would donate money or volunteer time (60%) to an organization working on climate change.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

57% have bought goods or services in the last 12 months from a company that has taken action to reduce climate change.

55% would “definitely” or “probably” join a citizens’ campaign to convince leaders in Ireland to take action to reduce climate change.

52% would write letters, email, or phone government officials about climate change.
Climate Change Beliefs and Attitudes of the Irish People

88% say climate change is affecting weather in Ireland.

96% of Irish people think climate change is happening.

85% are worried about climate change.

94% trust scientists as a source of information about climate change.

72% of people in Ireland say they discuss climate change with family and friends.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a "very high" or "high" priority for the Government of Ireland.

62% think taking action to reduce climate change will improve economic growth and create jobs.

78% say taking action to reduce climate change will improve Ireland's quality of life.

People in Ireland say many sectors of Irish society should be doing more to address climate change.

90% say Ireland has a responsibility to act on climate change and should do what it can to reduce its own greenhouse emissions.

88% say climate change is affecting weather in Ireland.

85% are worried about climate change.

94% trust scientists as a source of information about climate change.

72% of people in Ireland say they discuss climate change with family and friends.

96% of Irish people think climate change is happening.
62% think taking action to reduce climate change will improve economic growth and create jobs.

79% of Irish people say climate change should be either a “very high” or “high” priority for the Government of Ireland.

78% say taking action to reduce climate change will improve Ireland’s quality of life.

90% say Ireland has a responsibility to act on climate change and should do what it can to reduce its own greenhouse emissions.

People in Ireland say many sectors of Irish society should be doing more to address climate change.

85% are worried about climate change.

94% trust scientists as a source of information about climate change.

72% of people in Ireland say they discuss climate change with family and friends.

96% of Irish people think climate change is happening.

88% say climate change is affecting weather in Ireland.
Climate-Related Behaviours

69% of Irish people would donate money or volunteer time (60%) to an organization working on climate change.

57% have bought goods or services in the last 12 months from a company that has taken action to reduce climate change.

52% would write letters, email, or phone government officials about climate change.

45% have punished companies in the last 12 months that are opposing steps to reduce climate change by not buying their products.

55% would “definitely” or “probably” or join a citizens’ campaign to convince leaders in Ireland to take action to reduce climate change.